Milwaukee St. Jam
Causes Damage to Car

Use of the narrow portion of West Milwaukee street between River street and the bridge as a parking space, resulted in damage, Saturday afternoon to the automobile of George Sherman, when the machine was struck by a traction company car. Sherman was driving between the narrow lane made by cars parked at the curb, and the car tracks, when the trolley approached and hit the machine. Due to both cars being driven slowly, because of the congestion, damage was slight. A fender was damaged on Sherman's car.

Rushing Water Main
to Permit Bridge Work

Good progress is being made by city employees in the laying of the big water main under the river at Jackson street, and at the present time the conduit has been put in past the center of the stream. The work is being rushed as the Wausau Iron Works, who were awarded the contract for the bridge structure, is about ready to commence its preliminary work. Much material has arrived in the city and is being brought to the site. Several additional carloads of material and tools are on route and should arrive any day.

EASTER SERVICES AT THE TRINITY CHURCH ARE MOST IMPRESSIVE

The Easter services at Trinity altar was decorated with white lilies, carnations and roses, with the lighted candles, made a most attractive picture. Reverend Father Manyon, of Milwaukee conducted the services. He spoke of this day, of all the days in the year, as being glorious and wonderful, because of the resurrection. Everyone was asked to give thanks for the recovery of their pastor, Rev. Henry Willman, from a serious illness.

He is still an invalid, but much improved. The following message was sent by him to the congregation: Dear people and friends:

Just a word of greeting. I regret that I cannot be with you in body, as I shall be with you in spirit. But God has willed otherwise. For the first time in my life's experience, I am shut in the confines of a sick room. I am grateful to all of you for your prayers for my recovery, and for the evidence of your affection and esteem which have been sent to me from the beginning. The constant succession of flowers, sent by Mrs. George Yahn; Mr. Henry Willman, from a serious illness.

The musical part of the service was most beautifully rendered. The following program was given: Festival Prelude (Gould); Buckle; Processional, Come Ye Faithful; Raise the Strains; Introit for Easter Day; Kyrie (Charles Leaning); Gloria Tibi (Learned); Gradual (Learned); Credo; Sanctus (Learned); Agnus Dei (Learned); Gloria in Excelsis (Learned); solo Mrs. George Yahn; Recessional Hymn, 112; Post V. organ, "Jesus Christ is Risen"; Mrs. Mary Doty presided at the organ. She deserves special mention for her hard work in training the large choir and preparing the Easter music, and much of the success was due to her efforts.

The choir consists of the Misses Louise Ford, Alta and Esther Pfeiffer, Isabel Smith, Margaret Doty, William Allen, Evelyn Kavelage, Flavia Blake, Mrs. Allen Dearborn, Mrs. George Yahn, Mrs. Otto Lucas, and Messrs. David Atwood, Jr., Luther Mills, Wyckoff Ford, Conrad Knapp, Leon De Lambert, James Gregory, Franklin Fisher, George Mills, Miller Olin, Harold Fish, Edward Dougherty, William Mills, Roy Bull, Walter Bull, Frederick, Neil and Earl Schumacher, George and Roy Richards, Charles Greenedge, Sylvan Reeder and John Hill.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

MY LITTLE GARDEN.
For many years I have lived in the swinging, boisterous, blustering, smoke-begrimed city. But I have never gotten very far out of my little garden. It is a portable garden. That I carry around and set up wherever I happen to be. It has an ivy-clad wall and a profusion of vines, and as I sit in my garden I dream of my dreams. The creeping honeysuckle and the climbing roses seem somehow to blend into the great black chimneys. And the ugly things which abound in the great outside. The world passes by my garden, and once in a while it dangles its golden apples over my garden wall. And I grasp for them sometimes, missing most of them. But gaining a few and never mourning those that get away. And I sing my little songs as the great pulsing, nervous, anxious, straining world rushes by my garden gate and my heart stays young. And in tune with the sweet-throated birds that warble in my little dream garden. No, I am not rich as riches go—but I am happy.

Some one has said that at least the sea has been made safe for Annette Kellerman and her mermaid movies.

JUST A MOMENT.
Dear Roy—Will you please explain the League of Nations in your column to decide a bet?—H. W. Yonkers, N. Y.

Now listen:
We have lived forty years of our life and we figure that at the best we haven't more than forty to go. We had just decided to retire and live on our income.

Would it be right to ask us to spend our remaining forty years explaining the League of Nations to all fairminded people? The best we can have is a column a day, and by the closest figuring it would take 117 volumes of this newspaper to get away with the job, and then we wouldn't know whether to give the French, English, Belgian, Italian or American version. We thank H. W. for the compliment and for endorsing us with supernatural powers; but, really—to tell the truth, we don't know a darn thing about it.

The zero hour in any household is when friend husband steps up on the front porch five hours late and inserts his right key into the door.

That Hungarian-Bolshevik uprising may fall to make a long run, on account of the poor stage management by the Germans.

What will become of the old boys who have reached 117 years and have taken a drink every day of their lives? Now they must look forward to living forever, if the prohibition arguments are good.

BRAVE AMERICANS
Portraits of Medal Winners, Made at the Front by Official Portrait Painter of the A. E. F., JOSEPH CUMMINGS CHASE.

Sgt. RALPH M. ATKINSON, 167th Infantry, of Alabama. Sergeant Atkinson is a little fellow, but he did a big thing. During the attack on Cote-de-Chatillon, Sergeant Atkinson was in command of a Stokes mortar platoon. He was advancing with the first wave of the assault when, on hearing the objective, 230 of the enemy came up on the right for a flank attack. At this juncture Sergeant Atkinson ran out in the open with his Stokes mortar, weighing thirty pounds, under heavy shell fire to a position where he could get a fair field of fire, set up the mortar, holding it between his knees, and opened a murderous fire on the approaching enemy, killing many and dispersing the remainder. His quick action and extraordinary heroism at a critical moment not only broke up the enemy attack, but inflicted very severe losses on them. (Copyright, 1919.)

"WIN A SAW" CONTEST TO CLOSE FRIDAY

Only four days more to get the finishing touches on the bird house to win the saw the Gazette is offering for the best bird house submitted to its judges Friday, by any boy of about the seventh or eighth grade.

The houses will be exhibited in a downtown window. The Gazette will aid any of the boys who want to sell their bird houses to find a buyer. The houses will remain the property of the boys if they so desire.

If you are making or going to make a house to enter in the contest please leave your name at the Gazette office. However, this is not necessary to enter the contest Friday. Bring your houses down before Friday evening.

The birds are about all back. They are looking for homes. Get your house fixed up for them.

U. S. TAX ON FARES
DECREASED SLIGHTLY

Railroad taxes have gone down. The reduction is so small, however, it's hardly noticeable. Excess baggage and pullman tickets with slight reduction for freight rates feature the decrease.

The United States railroad administration ordered the taxes down. There's a big drawback, however, Washington only has reference to fares less than or of 42 cents will be exempt from the 8 per cent war tax. This is a change from 35 cents.

If you're going to Beloit, where there's a big talk of moving the county jail and the district attorney's office—they'll want the court house next—instead of paying a 40 cent fare you'll receive back enough to change to the Pullman ticket, all Janesville to let them know you visited the Bower City suburb.

Tax on Pullman tickets have been reduced 2 per cent, from 10 to 8 per cent.

EMPLOYMENT SUNDAY
IN CHURCHES MAY 4

All churches and church members throughout the country are called upon to take an active part in the observance of Employment Sunday, May 4, and to make it and the following days count in their obligation to discharged soldiers and sailors.

William B. Wilson, secretary of labor, has issued the call for the observance of Employment Sunday in Janesville as well as other cities as follows:

"The national church organizations of the country have united in a campaign to assist the employment service of the department of labor and cooperating agencies in finding employment for returning soldiers, sailors and war workers. They have designated Sunday, May 4, as Employment Sunday, on which day the national program of employment will be the subject of sermons and bible class meetings and churches will institute still further work on behalf of the returning men who must find employment."

"Special appeal will be made to employers to keep their needs listed with the employment service which is in touch with the returning soldiers and sailors."

HOLD YOUR STOCK.

One of the strong assertions made by Dr. Nolen, city planner, who was in the city recently, was that Janesville needed more recreation centers—more amusement parks. He declared that the city was woefully lacking in that respect and that with an increase in population it would be necessary to establish places where the public could enjoy itself when not at work. Announcement comes that attempts are being made to buy up stock in the Janesville Fair association so that the grounds are located on the fair grounds and sold for building lots. Stockholders should recognize at once that such a move would be a detriment to the city as well as the entire community. The fair ground is, at the present time, the only place where provision is made for carrying on two sports which are popular in this part of the state—baseball and racing. The fair grounds track is considered one of the best in this part of the country and in time bids fair to become the training grounds for some of the fast steppers in the middle west. Sunday, several hundred men and women attended the first baseball game of the season to see the outside team. They enjoyed the privilege and want more of it.

Janesville is not so crowded that room cannot be found for the people who will come here to make their future homes. We want houses built and we want them built in locations where people will live in them where they will be comfortable and it will not be necessary to cut up our only amusement park to provide ground space.

As an investment the stockholders in the fair association can afford to hold on to their stock. The land is worth $1,000 an acre now, according to real estate men and others, and with the city growing, in a few years it is bound to be worth a good deal more. Janesville cannot afford to lose her fair grounds to make way for industrial plants who hope to realize handsomely from a financial standpoint. Stockholders will no doubt stand firmly for the retention of the stock if for no other reason than that their community pride will not let them relinquish it at a time when the prospects for a successful financial year for the association are bright.

FARM HELP.

The war department again comes in for criticism for its lack of appreciation of the needs of the country at this time when reconstruction is the most important problem before us. Farmers, this time are the critics, and their demands are most reasonable. The war department has failed to make any provision for the release of soldiers who could be used in the agricultural work. Farmers have made appeals in vain. The war department with evident lack of foresight, has overlooked the fact that in order for the United States to do the share allotted to it in providing food for the world, men must work the farms. Thousands of soldiers are at work in France building roads for that republic. Others are clearing timber land and otherwise engaging in clearing up the wreckage caused by the war, according to letters coming overseas from our boys. In the south soldiers have been used to work alongside of negro workmen, earning $5 a day, building highways. In the letters from France, our soldiers declare that French soldiers are idle.

Nothing is of more importance just now than providing sufficient help for the American farmer. Upon his production, to a great extent, depends the success of those principles for which we have fought. Our task is to supply the food that will make reconstruction successful. In order to do so we must have men to till the soil. Other nations should bear the biggest share of the burden imposed by police work in Europe and our men should be sent home with all possible speed to aid in carrying out the obligations which have been forced upon us.

Representative Frank L. Smith, Illinois, sums up the situation in a letter in which he says:

"The government is calling upon the farmers to produce food and more food; it is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars advertising the need to send food abroad. We are also spending hundreds of thousands urging school children to grow wheat in their gardens, when one soldier held in the service at $30 a month could grow more food upon a sixty acre farm in my district than a thousand school children will ever grow on a thousand back yards or vacant lots."

"Each case in which the discharge of a soldier is asked to enable him to return to farm work is an emergency case—a desperately urgent case at this time, because the planting season is here and if a farm is not planted within the next few weeks, it must lie idle. It is up to somebody to do something, and do it quickly. Farmers have waited patiently for their sons and former employees to be discharged, but they are not discharged. There is not time now to go through the tedious process of getting up affidavits and waiting for discharge boards to act in each separate case. There must be relief at once or the food production of the country will be dangerously reduced, not only, but there will be widespread dissatisfaction with the government."

About this time about every one in Janesville and Rock county has decided that he will make this Victory loan one of the most successful and snappiest this community has had a part in. The workers are on the job to make it easy for a man or woman to subscribe for any amount he or she can afford. We will wager that Rock county will be among the top-notchers when the results are made known.

Wilbur F. Carle, who resigned as a member of the police and fire commissions, and as president of that organization has served the city long and faithfully. The public is reluctant to allow Mr. Carle to relinquish his duties, but the infirmities of age have made a demand that will not be denied.

Exports and imports both showed an increase in March, according to a statement issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce. Exports were valued at $405,000,000, as compared with $338,000,000 in February and $523,000,000 for March of the previous year. For the nine months ended with March the exports were valued at $4,921,000,000, an increase of approximately $600,000,000 over the corresponding period of the preceding year. Imports for March totaled $268,000,000, as against $235,000,000 for February of this year and $242,000,000 for March of last year. For the nine months ended with March the value of merchandise imported into this country was $2,301,000,000, as compared with $2,053,000,000 for a similar period of the preceding year.

Electrical contractors declare that their employes, now on strike, would have been satisfied if outside agitators had not stirred up trouble. Strikers claim they are not getting a fair deal and intend to stay out even if they must go to work on their farms. Those who have been in Janesville, which has become known in the last few months as a prosperous city where there was plenty of work for all; where workmen were satisfied with their prosperity; where unemployment was hardly known, has been put in the same class as other cities where effort is being made to foment industrial unrest.

With the number of new houses in course of construction and plans for many more just about completed, those profiteers who have put up the price of house rent and room rent beyond all reason nether take a tumble to their selves and get under cover. Next fall some of these near-shacks which have suddenly been boosted to the skies will not be worth so much. Those who have had to stand the gaff by paying exorbitant rents will have a sore spot and the landlord will eventually lose money in the end.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE VICTORY LOAN.

I thought: "The war is over now, the boys are coming home, the Hun is no more the Hun attack. The Stars and Stripes in safety wave against the summer sky. There is no need of sacrifice, more bonds I will not buy." And then a soldier passed my way, his sight was blurred and dim, the time of war's grim sacrifice will never end for him.

The war is over! Soothing thought for those of us who stayed. We never faced the German guns nor heard a cannonade; We never drank the poisoned air and silvered with the drought. We lingered here from happy secure and loved and sang and laughed. But those who carry empty sleeves and those who wear the scars Must pay the price of war until they pass beyond the stars.

The mothers of our glorious dead, whose wounds shall never mend. Think you for their troubled hearts the sacrifice shall end? When shall they settle back and smile and free from sorrow say, The war is over. Peace has come, and we must cease to pay. Oh, they shall give in tears and sighs until their forms are cold, We only can forget the war whose gifts were made in gold.

The war is over for the dead, but not for us who live. There still is need for sacrifice, there still is need to give. And none who sees a soldier pass whose eyes have lost their glow, Or who must walk through life in pain on limping feet and show Has any right to settle back, and claim the victor's share And say in tones of selfishness that he may cease to care.

WHO'S WHO
in the Daily News

GLENN H. CURTIS.
Glenn H. Curtis, recently announced in a statement for the Manufacturers' Aircraft association, that preparations for the construction of a flying boat, capable of carrying two tons of freight or passengers across the Atlantic in twenty-four hours, are being made.

GLENN CURTIS

"The difference between the American entry in the flight and the ships entered by European or Canadian interests lies in the fact that the NC boats have not been specially constructed," Mr. Curtis said. "With the exception of the increased power and certain alterations in interior construction of the hulls the ships are the same as when designed for submarine chasing. Yet they have demonstrated a big factor of safety, can carry an enormous useful load, and can land safely in a heavy sea. Trip Will Aid Development.

"At the time the armistice interrupted our war activities we had completed the design for an advanced type of flying boat which, no larger than the NC-series, would be capable of accommodating a much greater useful load and carrying it across the sea. Our plans, which were held up during the brief reconstruction period, now are being worked out, and we, in common with all other American airplane motor manufacturers look to the trans-Atlantic flight as an experiment in which some unknown factors may be revealed and invaluable experience gained.

Points About New Ship.
Although Mr. Curtis did not describe in detail the new ship he is designing, it is known that it will be of 1,600 horsepower, furnished by four motors. The ship will be able to throttle down to about half speed after reaching the designed altitude, so that economy in gasoline consumption may be effected. Three men will operate the ship. All will be pilots, but each will have in addition a specialty, such as navigation, motor experience, or radio operation.

Mr. Curtis said it is possible to fit more pounds per square foot of supporting surface in a big plane than in a smaller one. This means, he predicted, that the future will bring much larger ships than are at present being built.

Curtis was born at Hammondsport, New York, May 21, 1878. He was educated in the public schools there and married at age of 20. He became secretary and treasurer of the Curtis Exhibition company, New York, and president of the Curtis Aeroplane company. In 1905, at Oromor Beach, Fla., he made the fastest mile ever traveled in a specially constructed forty-horsepower motor-cycle. For two years he was director of experiments of the Aerial Experimentation association of America. He has won many cups, among them the Scientific American cup, the International cup at Rheims, the Scientific American cup for the longest flight in America, the Aero Club of America trophy, cups for the invention and demonstration of the hydro-aeroplane and the flying boat.

Since 1912 he has made numerous flights in the United States and abroad.

will stand constant laundering. They should be soaked in lukewarm water and scrubbed with soap. Hot or boiling water should not be used, as it impairs the rubber in the elastic.

The superior quality of Modart body cloths—tapes—hoose supports are not affected by tubbing and the clock spring steel boning in MODARTS is protected by a rubberized covering that makes it impervious to water.

Inferior quality corsets that are made from materials loaded with starch lose their shape when laundered, and paper-covered boning, which rubs off when becomes wet, allows the steel underneath to rust. When well laundered and aired MODART Corsets become like new. There is no impairment to any part of the garment. Its shapely lines are unimpaired.

CROAK AUTO THIEVES, DOUGLAS STORE THIEF ARRESTED BY POLICE

Clever work on the part of the police department, testimony brought out in Municipal court yesterday, resulted in the arrest of those responsible for the theft of the automobile of William Croak and the arrest of the Douglas store burglar. All was the work of Janesville men.

Frank Wilson, 17, Eugene Hill, 18, and Edward Kelly, 26, are held for the Croak car theft. A lad wearing short trousers, 13 years old, admitted entering the hardware store, the police say.

Following the taking of testimony of Chief of Police William E. Gower, after the three young men were handed examination on charges of taking and driving away the automobile without the consent of the owners, Judge Maxfield held them for trial and set bail for $500 each.

As the boys were being led out Wilson and Hill turned and made an appeal for opportunity to enter a plea of guilty. On the advice of District Attorney Stanley G. Dunwiddie who expressed a desire to go farther into the case this was refused.

Judge Maxfield set the trial for April 30, at 10 o'clock on Wednesday. The Croak machine was recovered at Oconomowoc Friday by Chief of Police Gower and Mr. Croak. It had been damaged by a fire at Oconomowoc, a small place near Oconomowoc.

With tears streaming down his face and plainly showing his remorse and his bewilderment with court proceedings, the father of thirteen year old youngsters, who entered the Douglas store and stole to satisfy a youthful whim—a shotgun and a rifle was his lot—appealed before the court, knowing no lawyer to advise him, knew nothing of the phrases and wording of the warrant and as a whole was at loss with what to do.

He was given opportunity to secure a lawyer. He called in W. H. Dougherty. The lad was released on $300 bail.

The engagement of Hon. John M. Whitehead, this city, to Miss Juliet C. Thorp, Madison, is announced. The wedding will take place early in the summer.

Mr. Whitehead will return from Elgin, Ill., this evening. He has been spending several days on business.

Mr. Whitehead is considered one of the most prominent men in the state. From 1897 to 1918 he served as a senator. During the war he was a member of every patriotic organization and a director in many. He is now chairman of the Wisconsin branch of the League to Enforce Peace.

A three-course wedding breakfast for the bride party was served at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Lawrence, 609 West Bluff street, immediately after the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Winifred Shaubert, and the groom by his cousin, Francis Connors of this city. Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor left on a short wedding trip after which they will be at home on the groom's farm in the town of Hammon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Margaret Buggs, 609 West Bluff street. The groom is the son of Mrs. Edna O'Connor, Milton avenue.

Demetral said he was confident he could trim the Marvel, and declared he was willing to meet him either at a local theater, a club, or in private.

Happiest Easter in Years is Celebrated by Special Exercises in City Churches

(By MRS. ARBIE HELEMS)

Perhaps the happiest Easter in years was celebrated yesterday with special exercises in churches of all denominations.

Flowers, music, children's exercises and inspiring sermons helped bring to mind the significance of the anniversary of which the day was a memorial.

In the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches, early masses were celebrated in the holy communion were features. At the Lutheran churches special music was given at the morning services and also the celebration of the Eucharist. Large crowds were in attendance at nearly all the churches, and standing room only the rule, before the conclusion of services.

The service at St. Peter's, St. Peter's Lutheran church, beginning at 10 o'clock with special music by the chorists assisted by Miss Rector of the School for the Blind. The pastor, Rev. G. J. Muller, preached from the text, "Who shall Roll Away the Stone from the Door of the Sepulchre?" There was also communion at this service. At 3 o'clock there was held a baptism service when five children were baptized. They were Marion Ehrhinger, Lois Campbell, Doris Zierath and Frank Zierath and Lorraine McCarthy.

In the evening at 7 o'clock, exercises were held by the Sunday school with the following program: Reading by Mildred Malmberg and Otis Thorman; Recitation: George Ehrhinger, Carl Muller, Melvin Malmberg and Fred Heath; Song: "The Easter Story," by G. J. Muller, Doris Malmberg, Margaret Nauth, "Easter"—Recitation by Muriel Laurenson; The Easter Story, by G. J. Muller, Doris Malmberg, Margaret Nauth, "Easter"—Resurrection, by Muriel Laurenson; Song: "The Easter Story," by G. J. Muller, Doris Malmberg, Margaret Nauth, "Easter"—Resurrection, by Muriel Laurenson; Song: "The Easter Story," by G. J. Muller, Doris Malmberg, Margaret Nauth, "Easter"—Resurrection, by Muriel Laurenson.

The sermon given by Rev. F. E. Lewis, was the answer to the topic, "Did Christ Rise From the Dead?" and was a clear and logical presentation of arguments along that line.

"That Christ had lived, was a historical fact," he said, and just as easily proven from secular authorities as the fact of Napoleon's existence. "But the fact of the resurrection," he explained, "was a subject of inquiry, of which the skeptics required proof."

He showed that three theories had been brought forward by doubters, who did not believe in the resurrection of Christ. The first of these was that Christ was not dead when he was taken from the cross, but in a swoon. This belief he considered untenable, as the soldiers who had nailed him crucified, would see to it that he was dead. Also the records of the prophets showed that the Messiah would be raised from the dead.

"Another theory was noted, as being that Christ had died, but the body was stolen by the disciples. This theory was refuted by the fact that the tomb was sealed with the Roman seal, and a guard placed in front of it all the time.

Then again the apostles believed in his death and resurrection, and sealed their belief with their lives. "All the apostles preached the same high belief, until their death."

The third theory was that the apostles brooding over the death of Christ and in view of his promise to come again, had thought they had seen him in a vision. This hypothesis was shown by the fact that the Jews could not find the body to offset their belief in the resurrection and this they were especially anxious to do.

In view of the failure of all theories to present contrary proof," the speaker said, "the world had come to reasonably believe in the resurrection of Christ as a great historical fact." He then read the Epistle to the Ephesians in the shadow of the great temple of the pagan religions, testified to the fact.

The thought was emphasized that great events could not be founded on delusions, and that this religion preached by a handful of disciples made its way against the strongest opposition of the Roman Empire, and that the whole world was converted nearly the whole civilized world.

Science, Philosophy and the lore of ancient peoples, he showed had this same longing for immortality, which is the central idea of the Christian religion. "There is not only an instinct but a longing," said Rev. Lewis, "that somewhere there will be a chance for the incomplete life, and the work of the resurrection."

"Because I live, you shall live," comes as a promise, which takes away the sting of the grave, and gives to the world the hope of the resurrection."

At the close of the sermon the following people united with the church: Paul Parker, Mary and Inez Hoover, Dr. and Mrs. McCormack, Doris Sheed, Mrs. W. H. Thompson, and Magi Ransom of Emerald Grove.

Appropriate Music.
Appropriate music was given by a choir of 20 voices directed by Clara Shawhan. "Why Seek ye the Living by the Dead?" was the title of the song. "Gloria" being the anthem, in the latter Mr. Beaumont sang the solo. Potted plants and lilies and palms were used in decoration of the pulpit, most of them being sent in for a memorial of friends gone before.

Baptist Church.
This organization had special reason for rejoicing on Easter Day as it marked the successful termination of its campaign for the religious quota for a Victory Campaign in their denomination. A committee of a dozen men and women with O. D. Antelias as chairman, had been working for some time along the line for the quota, which was $1700. On yesterday's morning service pledges, checks, and money was placed in the baskets to the amount of $1750, with the church promising, bringing the total probably to $1800.

A large class baptised into the church was a feature of the morning service. They were: Edna Hudson, and Zebbie Woodstock, for adults; and the boys: Edward Hodge, Walter Feltz, Russell Gower, Donald Churchell, and for girls: Frances Parker, Virginia Jones, Cora Beers, Loraine Freeman, Jean Krotz, Gladys Tucker, Edna Hudson, and Mildred Look. The pastor, Rev. Raymond Plerson, preached from Acts 3rd, verse 21, "Repent ye, then, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins."

The instances given were that when he came to Mary, he seemed the incarnation of love, to his disciples, as the apostle of peace; to the fishermen at Galilee, as a living example of patient industry, and to Peter as reviving him of his sin in denial. The many-sided nature of Christ in satisfying the different needs of humanity was emphasized in a practical way.

"The King of Glory," was given better by the large audience at 4 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Thomas. A choir of about twenty voices assisted by Clara Shawhan, Pearl Baker, Lorene Bowerman, Olive Pope, David Drummond, Alfred Olson and others.

A quartette number was sung by Messrs Olson, Drummond, and Mrs. Thomas and Miss Bowerman. A touching duet, "Sorrow and Love Mingled," was sung by Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Olson. Also a duet, "An Easter Service of the Sunday school was held at 9:45 o'clock. There were several songs by the primary and kindergarten department under the direction of Mrs. C. Beers, and the Junior also had a song, "He is King."

Four girls gave a recitation, "Tell the Story," and six boys gave the "Day of Victory." An Easter Greeting was given by John Jarvis, and "Tell His Disciples" by Lydia Lovas, and "Easter Day of Cheer" by Ruth Dixon.

Miss Esther Barker gave a sweet and inspiring music reading, "Rock of Ages," which had an undertone of that fine old hymn. Palms and potted plants decorated the pulpit, and about 250 children participated in the exercises.

Berlin, April 21.—The cabinet devoted less than half an hour to the formulation of its answer to the allies' invitation to Versailles for the purpose of receiving a draft of the peace terms.

A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

MOTIVATION—WOMAN. Roy won the race, but he had to use the last bit of wind in him to do it.

"Where—where—did you get that new twisty trick with your shoes?" he panted admiringly.

"Joe Silverfeather taught it me this morning. He said it is."

"It is in this manner that Mrs. Nicoll diverted her son's mind whenever it tried to sneak off to the business cares which had brought on a temporary but acute need for rest. At such times it was always his mother he took along either for a winter holiday in the mountains, or a spring tour in Bermuda, or for a cruise in their little knockabout boat on the sound in the summer.

They reached the crest of a low mountain about sundown. As they looked in the red glow of the setting sun, Mrs. Nicoll broke the silence.

"Water, in a way it's a good thing there aren't many mothers like you," he said thoughtfully.

She turned to him with a smile. "I was not very good to her, but she waited to hear it again."

"You're so nearly all that a man wants of a woman whom I've never spied on for marriage. I've never seen a woman to match you—"

"Hatter!" his mother said, throwing him a flashing smile. "What? Never?"

"Well, hardly ever," Roy cried laughing. Then turning serious, "Perhaps—perhaps, Janet."

His mother turned to him. "Roy, do you think you would have made her happier than Walt Steadman has?" she asked.

Roy shook his head slowly.

"But you have all the prospects in the world of making that little writing woman you met on a shipboard happier than Walt Steadman would."

"Water, mater," Roy Nicoll cried. "If you don't stop mentioning that girl to me, fine though she be, you'll drive me yet to matrimony!"

TROTTEUR SUIT IS SMARTLY TAILORED

By ELOISE.

It is not an easy task to wear the trottur suit. It is much simpler to get a belted and rather ordinary poked-out model and look like everybody else. But if one has the sense and the time and the money to wear a trottur suit, there is nothing more striking in the whole of fashion's styles from morning aprons to evening gowns.

The woman or girl who adopts the trottur suit must have an unerring sense of the fitness of things and she must never ruin the effect of her suit by wearing inappropriate hats, boots, shoes or accessories.

She must be unusually careful about her carriage and walk for a trottur suit does not conceal lines as does a soft satin, chiffon, or over-skirted gown.

The smart trottur suit, pictured was snapped on the board walk at Atlantic City. It is made of dark colored material with a single-breasted jacket, a high collar, a single button fastening. The other buttons and buttonholes form the only ornament in the costume. The coat is unbuttoned but slightly fitted at the waist and the skirt is plain, long and tight. A tailored blouse of striped silk with a knitted tie and a stiff-brimmed sailor hat complete the costume. The hat is emerald green potpourri straw with tan facing.

mine I find, as I frequently do, that in failing to give the task at hand my full attention I have made some foolish mistake.

Whenever I see my shoes.

Another friend told me how to tie my shoe in a way in which it would not come untied and whenever I wear lace boots I am sure to think of her at least once a day.

Not one of these three is anyone I would naturally think about, one year or for whom I care in the least. And yet they visit my mind oftener than people I really care about.

What Do You Think Of?

Absurd isn't it? I wonder if you have had similar experiences?

Doubtless you will not be able to recall any at the moment but some day as you cut up the vegetables in some special way, or make some particular play at cards or end a letter with some apposite phrase you will think of the friend who suggested that method or play or phrase. And then perhaps you will also think of me.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

CARAGHEEN is a fine mouthful of a word if you get the right trill on the r and the right vehemence on the h. It is properly known as Irish moss and druggists call it chondrus. Botanists call it Fucus crispus.

It is gathered from the seashore of the southern and western coasts of Ireland and from the coast of Scotland. It occurs also on the southern coast of Massachusetts, where it is gathered by tearing it from the rocks or picked up from the shore after it has been washed ashore.

Boiled with water, it yields a solution which thickens to a jelly on cooling. In cold water it swells but does not dissolve.

Irish moss contains a certain amount of natural iodine. In Scotland they cook Irish moss and eat it as a breakfast dish. It has some nutritive value, but is especially valuable as a giver of bulk to the intestinal contents and as a demulcent, thus being a natural antidote to constipation. It has a rather agreeable salty taste. It is good to chew when you need something to ease and soften a harsh cough.

Because of its iodine in a natural assimilable form Irish moss should be kept in the house and fed occasionally to girls of 10 to 13 years who are inclined to have simple goitre. It may be chewed and swallowed as a relish, taken with cereals, or used to thicken soups, or as a demulcent drink.

It is an official substance in the United States Pharmacopoeia and in the British Pharmacopoeia, so if any reader goes to the drugstore and finds that the druggist does not know what Irish moss or chondrus is, let him just refer the druggist to the above authoritative works.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 18 years of age. I go with a crowd of girls ranging from 14 to 15 years of age. Part of my companions say I wear my dresses too short and too long. I am about five feet six inches tall and am well built. How long do you think I should wear my dresses.

There are three girls in our crowd who are jealous of me because if any of these girls and I go together and one of our boy friends comes up, he generally walks home with me, for there is seldom any one in the crowd who lives down my way. What can I do to make these girls understand? They are new girls and were very popular in the city they came from. I have asked some of the boys why they do not go with these girls more and they say that they don't like their company. I want the girls to be welcome to our vicinity. Please advise me what I should do.

BROWN EYES.
Wear your dresses about an inch below the shoe tops. Dresses are being worn long this season.

You worry too much about what people think. Go with the boys when they ask you, and take it for granted that the other girls are generous enough not to be jealous. It is useless to try to force the boys to go with the girls, because when you tell them they will do so without your urging.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: How old should a girl be before she should go with boys—of course I mean the right kind of boys?

I am corresponding with a boy some older than myself and he used to go with my sister. He has been writing to me since he went to the army. He was with me before I thought of writing to him.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY
BY EDITH MORIARTY

The woman who was a woman in the great war deserves a great deal of credit. Men, women and children, who entered the navy to take care of the clerical and detail work of the navy in order to relieve men for active service, left positions of great prestige and good pay. They took jobs for the duration of the war and worked for less money than they were accustomed to earning. Now the pay of many of these women has been reduced to $20 a month and it is necessary that they seek other employment to make out an existence for themselves.

Miss Loretta McBride, however, was a chief yeoman during the war. She has resigned her job as head of 1,000 yeomen, not to get more pay or another job, but to do hostess work in France. Miss McBride will work for the National War Council. Her reason for the change is that now that the war is over she can be of more service in the work abroad. She is shown very much in her uniform. Before doing government work she was a newspaper woman, writing for the St. Louis Dispatch.

RECOGNIZED BY GOVERNMENT
The department of agriculture has designated Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth of Avon, N. Y., president of the Genesee Valley Horse Breeders' Association, as a specialist in horse husbandry, and that energetic horse woman will continue the splendid work she has been doing in the matter of horse production in co-operation with the Jockey Club, having the backing and moral support of the federal authorities.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Wadsworth and with the assistance of the Jockey Club's Breeding Bureau, the Genesee Valley Horse Breeders' Association was formed, and through the organization, which is the only one of its kind in the United States, is only three years old, it has accomplished much.

SIDE TALKS

—By RUTH CAMERON

THE PEOPLE WE REMEMBER.
Isn't it funny how a person who really means almost nothing can enrich himself or herself in your memory by saying some little thing which links him with some familiar act? Every time you perform that act you think of that person.

For instance, a woman whom I met some years ago at a summer hotel told me of some exercises we were discussing that I ought for my health's sake to sit up straight. "I have been told," she said, "that one should sit up straight enough to see the back of one's neck touch one's collar." It is nine years since I met that woman and yet whenever I catch myself sagging forward and straighten up, I try to see if my neck is touching the top of my collar, and then I think of her.

She told me one of my bad faults. Something like 15 years ago, another woman, a woman I do not like, told me that I was probably never thinking of her. I was always thinking of what I was doing at the moment but of what I was going to do next. And whenever I find my mind shooting ahead from the letter I am writing to the letter I'm going to write next, from the grocery list I am making out at the moment to the shopping list I'm going to make out from the clothes I'm putting away to the telephone call I'm going to make when I get that task done, I think of her.

When because of that bad trick of

ALL-STARS TRIM RED DEVILS, 8 TO 7, IN FIRST GAME OF YEAR

The Janesville All-Stars won their first game of the season yesterday by defeating the Red Devils, 8 to 7, at Bailey's diamond.

It was a good ball game considering the lack of practice by both teams.

The Red Devils led at the end of the sixth inning, 7 to 5, when the Stars broke loose with a slugfest and closed in two runs, tying things up, in the seventh inning and nailing their eighth score in the next round.

Babcock led off with a double in the lucky seventh, sped to third on Marko's sacrifice and scored on "Plug" Hager's base single over third base.

Hager reached the keyhole sack and brought in the tying run when Crowley drove a hot one to center field.

The eighth round was fatal for the Red Devils. "Spec" McGlinery rapped out a single, stole two bases, and cantered home on Raubacher's miff.

During the Stars' lucky streak in the seventh, Crawford had the misfortune of sustaining his ankle and Capt. Bick was called upon to finish the game in center field. The Stars have two men on the bum now, having smashed a finger and lost a toe.

"Ted" Hager on the mound for the Stars struck out nine men, allowed into his and issued one pass. Hager has mastered a new device, "mystery ball," Crowley, backstop for the winners, showed up well with the stick and threw second with as much speed as a 32-centimeter gun.

Butch Raubacher found Hager for a two-bagger, and together with Peterson and Lohman, starred for the Red Devils.

Teams wanting games with the Stars should notify Capt. Bick. A number of games have been scheduled. Practice for the Stars will be held at Bailey's diamond at 6:30 this evening.

PLAN BIG PROGRAM OF SPORTS IN ALL INDUSTRIAL PLANTS

Extensive plans for work in the industrial field are being made by Porter Craig physical director at the Y. M. C. A. Noon hour and Saturday afternoon recreation and contests in baseball, volleyball, swimming, cage ball, a-moury ball, tennis and track meets are planned for the summer in the industrial baseball league will probably be the first activity, said Mr. Craig today.

Committee composed of representatives of the executive staff of large plants to cover the entire activities to be carried on among the industrial men, is being formed. The announcement of the committee and chairman as to what the league will do will be made more specific.

The members of the committee will appoint another committee of their employees to take charge of work within their shops and to work in cooperation with Mr. Craig in forming leagues and teams. They will divide the available men into teams, select captains, and assist in running of the schedule of the league.

The program calls for leagues with in each factory and also a league with all plants represented.

In speaking of the program, Mr. Craig said today: "The object of the work is not to promote athletics for athletics itself but to promote interest in the recreational features of the plant. It is valuable in the army cantonments; to create a happy, enjoyable atmosphere about the workers daily life; to give him something to do that is real pleasure and at the same time healthful; to get every fellow into some thing, the 'club' as well as the athlete; and at the same time maintain a sense of competition that puts life and enthusiasm into the play."

Desolation and Whith Crosses Mark Battlegrounds at Arras and Vimy

By MRS. HUMPHRY WARD.

LOOKING out from the Vimy Ridge six weeks ago, and driving thence through Arras across the Drocourt-Queant line to Douai and Valenciennes, I was in the very heart of that triumphant stand of the Third and First armies across the Scarpe which really determined the fate of the German attack.

The Vimy Ridge from the west is a stiff climb. On the east it rises so imperceptibly from the Arras road that the legend which describes the commander-in-chief approaching it from that side, as asking of the officers assembled to meet him after the victory—"And where is this ridge that you say you have taken?"—seems almost a reasonable tale. But on the west there is no doubt about it. One climbs up through shellholes and blurred trenches, over snags of wire and round the edges of craters, till on the top one takes breath on the wide plateau where stands the Canadian monument, and whence the eye sweeps that wide northern and eastern plain, towards Lille on the one side and Douai on the other, which to our war-beaten and weary soldiers, looking out upon it in 1917, was almost as new and strange a world as the Pacific was to its first European beholders.

THE RUINS OF LENS.

Westward of the Vimy ridge, whence our troops stormed the hill in 1917, rises the Boulogne wood, and the long blood-stained ridge of Notre Dame de Lorette. To the north we are looking through the horizon shadows to La Bassée, Bailloul and the salient; immediately below the hill, in the same direction, lie the ruins of Lens and of the mining towns surrounding it; while behind us the ground slopes southeast to Arras and the Scarpe.

It is a tremendous position. That even the nearest outsider can see. In old days the hill must have been a pleasant rambling ground for the tired workers of the coal mining districts. Then the war-blast at its fiercest passed over it. Today, in its renewed solitude, its scarred peace, it represents one of the masterpieces of the war, bought and held by a sacrifice of life and youth, the thought of which holds one's heart in grip as one stands there, trying to gather in the meaning of the scene.

LOSSES WERE APPALLING.

Not one short year ago it was in the very center of the struggle. If Arras and Vimy had not held, things would have been very grave, indeed. Had they been captured, our main communications—Amiens, Doullens, St. Pol, St. Omer—would have been seriously threatened, if not cut. The Germans were determined to have them, and they fought for them with desperate courage. Three assault divisions were to have carried the Vimy Ridge, while other divisions were to have captured Arras and the line of the Scarpe. The attack was carried out with the greatest fer-ness, men marching shoulder to shoulder into the furnace of battle. But this time there was no fog to shield them or to blind the British guns. The enemy losses were appalling, and after one day's fighting in spite of the more northerly attacks on our line still to come, the German hopes of victory were in the dust, and—as we now know—forever.

That is what Vimy means—what Arras means—in the fighting of last year. We ponder it as we drive through the wrecked beauty of Arras, and out on the Douai road on our way to Valenciennes. We passed slowly along the road to the east of Arras, honeycombed still with dugouts and gun emplacements, and past trenches and wire fields, till suddenly a mere signboard, nothing more—"Gavrelle"—shows us that we are crossing the famous Drocourt-Queant switch of the Hindenburg line, which the First army stormed and took in September of last year.

On either side of the road a wilderness of trenches run north and south. With what confidence the Germans dug and fortified and elaborated them years ago—with what contempt of death and danger our men carried them not six months since! And now there is a sign of life anywhere, nothing but groups of white crosses here and there emerging from the falling dusk, and the debris of battle along the road.

GUEST OF COMMANDER.

A weary way to Douai, over the worst road we have struck yet, and a weary way beyond it to Denain and Valenciennes. Darkness falls and hides the monotonous scene of ruin, which indeed begins to change as we approach Valenciennes, the headquarters of the First army. And at last, a bright fire in an old room piled with books and papers, a kind well-coming from the officer reigning over it, and the pleasant, care-worn face of an elderly lady with whom we are billeted.

Best of all, a message from the army commander, Sir Henry Horne, with whom we had made friends in 1917, just before the capture of the Vimy Ridge in which the First army played so brilliant a part. We hastily change our travel gear, a car comes for us, and soon we find ourselves at the general's table in the midst of an easy flow of pleasant talk.

What is it that makes the special charm of the distinguished soldier as compared with other distinguished men? I have often asked myself the question of late years and have not yet found an answer to it.

Simplicity, I suppose, first of all, and truth. The realities of war leave small room for any kind of pose. An honest personal stoicism, also, that is felt, but not seen; and toward weak and small things—women and children—a natural softness and tenderness of feeling, as though a man who has upon him such stern responsibilities of life and death must needs grasp at their opposites when and how he can; high intelligence, modesty, courtesy; a habit of brevity; a boy's love of fun; you will find these characteristics running in various proportions through the elite of all ranks, officers or privates. They are certainly conspicuous in many leaders of the Allied armies.

GENERAL'S LITTLE KNOWN.

"Why don't you boom your generals?" said an American diplomatist to me some eight months ago. "Your public at home knows far too little about them individually. But the personal popularity of the military leader in such a national war as this is a military asset."

I believe I entirely agreed with the speaker. But it is not the British military way, and the unwritten laws of the service stand firm. So let me remind you that General Horne commanded the First army since September, 1916, that in conjunction with Sir Julian Byng he carried the Vimy Ridge in 1917, and held the left at Arras in 1918; and finally, that he was the northernmost of the three army commanders who stormed the Hindenburg line last September.

It was in his study and listening to the explanations he gave so clearly and kindly of the staff maps that lay before us that I first realized with anything like sufficient sharpness the meaning of those words we have all repeated so often without understanding them—"the capture of the Hindenburg line."

What was the Hindenburg line? I have seen one of its most famous sections and some unique maps and photographs lie before me. So for the benefit of others, like myself, who wish to understand all they can of the war, first and foremost because we owe this small travail of mind to those who fought in it and died in it, that freedom might live, I will try and answer the question in another letter. Defeating the English Lutherans, 26 to 14, in a church league basketball game at the Y. M. C. A. last night, the first Baptist quintet is now tied with the Presbyterians for second place. The first Lutherans fought their way out of the cellar into a tie for fifth place by winning from the lowly Methodists, 18 to 12.

Harmon and Cunningham as usual were the stars for the Baptists caging three field goals apiece. Harridge who went in late in the game also fought the first three times. The Lutherans put up a game battle; Babcock and Raubacher doing most of the heavy work, but they were out-classed the whole route.

The surprise of the evening was the First Lutherans' victory, their first one. They opened up at the beginning of the contest with a great burst of speed and held the lead the whole game, the first half ending 9 to 6. Anderson headed the scoring column with 6 baskets. The Methodists seemed lost without Noyes and Mott who were unable to play.

Four more church league games are scheduled for this week, two Wednesday, and two Saturday. The Baptists and St. Patrick's five will hook up in a hot battle in the high school gym at 7:30 Wednesday night with the Presbyterian-First Lutheran game following at 8:30. The two games Saturday will be played at the Y. M. C. A. St. Mary's vs. English Lutherans at 8:30.

(By K. L. EAGON.)

More than 400 baseball fans in Jansville lined up Sunday in hopes of seeing a ball game.
They saw a pretty fair contest, discounted by the batting prowess of the new celebrated hitless wonder, but the club that averaged in the field at the fair grounds Sunday will have to be dynamited and reset before baseball will come into its own here.
Outside of Eldred, who pitched a good game for the Jans, and Tommy, who backstopped for the local gang, and who, incidentally looked better than any of the 22 men who participated, you have the Jansville team in six men, two of whom are pit-train in the Jansville, Pire, Hoop, Kakuske, Viney, Bick and Stewart.

Jans Couldn't Hit.
It wasn't batting superiority by the Brewers that won the game for them Sunday. It was more the batting deficiency (or total absence of same) by the Jans, coupled with a couple of inexcusable mistakes by the Jans, who started in left field for the city bunch, one of which let in a trio of markers.
"Rube" Eldred pitched a good game—and should have been returned to his locker. Despite the fact that he received no support in pinches and he didn't get himself into many pinches, Rube worked like a Trojan all the time, striking out eight men during the game. He was a real pitcher, and he didn't let his lack of support in the Milwaukeean's credit, for some of the Jans might as well have stayed home, insofar as their batting blunder was concerned.
Only three men who hit safely for the Jans were Eldred, Stewart and Kakuske. Kakuske's smash went for a home run, but no men on the bench could advance him. The Jansville club could advance him, but he got all around. He is a fast man at bat and outfield.

Jimmy Gets a Hit.
Stewart collected a nice single, but died at third base. Jimmy is there, if he will quit getting sleepy in the field.
Jansville had two chances to win the game. One of the chances came in the second frame, when they didn't in the second frame. Jimmy Stewart, the first man up, got to first on a bunt. Eckman struck out on three wide ones.
"Fanks" Schaber swung hopelessly at a ball that skinned the pan and then fouled. The next ball nearly took one of Schaber's wings off, and he took first. Stewart already having gained the key position, took Tommy, who "rookie" hit into a double play that left never should have got at all. This seemed to take the heart out of some of the Jansville lads and right it might.

Eckman Spills Beans.
Stewart got on again in the seventh by singling. Things began to brighten but Eckman again fanned, as did Schaber who then gave way to Albie Bick, the clever little twirler waiting to figure in the box score. George Berger succeeded Bick for a couple of innings, but the diminutive veteran didn't have a chance in the field, and couldn't connect with the ball the one time he tried.

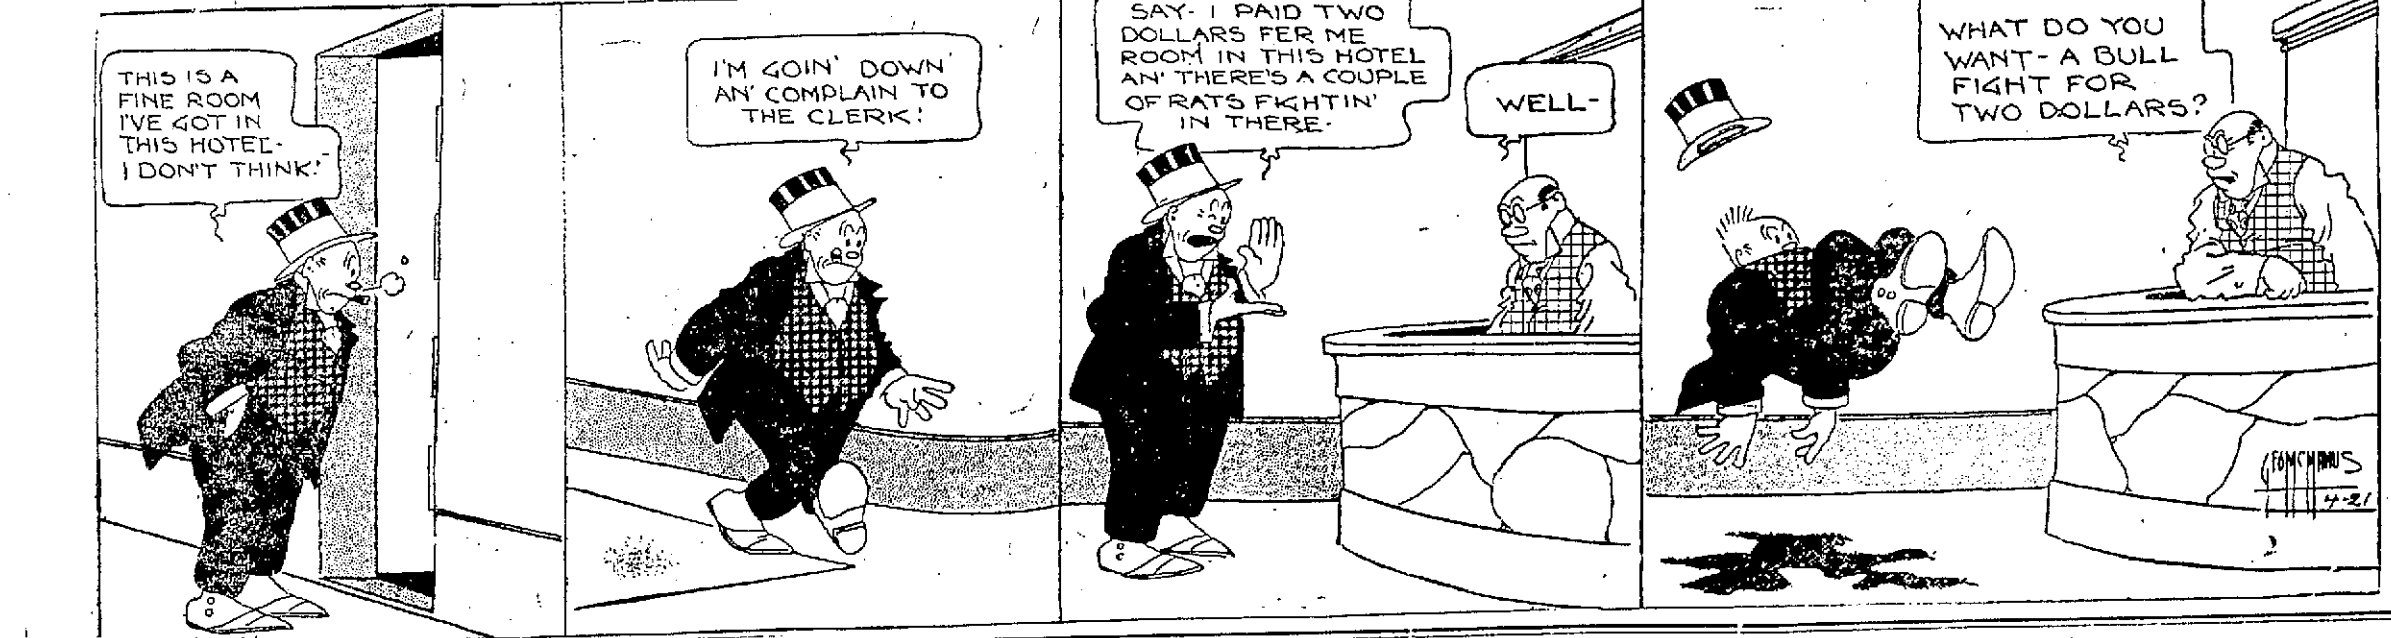

Little Les Pire started a brilliant double play by stabbing a hot line drive and throwing a Brewer who was on first out at second. Pire was credited with two errors, but one was excusable. It was a nasty grounder that he knocked down, but couldn't field after a couple of attempts.
Gardner, third for the visitors. He made three hits in five times at bat, although he was unfortunate on the bases, and did not hang up a marker. Kappe, who played a fast game, although he didn't connect once safely. Marks for the visitors, looked good at first base, but Neil Dopp was just as good, if not better, at the first sack for the Jans. If Dopp can only get into his batting stride, he will make the Jans a valuable man.

Eldred Not to Blame.
The answer for the defeat again is illustrated in the fact that Eldred did not yield a single base on balls, struck out eight men and did not permit one earned run, all of the Brewers' six coming on errors and ineffectual hitting. For the Brewers, had a nice vacation on the mound. He didn't look as good as Eldred, and Manager Gavin of the visiting team, admitted that in losing Eldred, who went to the Toledo (American Association) club, he had lost the best of his twirlers. He didn't have to overwork.

Milwaukee was brought to Jansville at a heavy expense to see if the local fans would come out to see a good team. They showed that they would, or gave some material indication of same. The expenses of the Milwaukee club, which were guaranteed, and their share of the gate (25%) didn't leave much profit for the Jans. After paying for auto hire and the expenses of a battery (which would have been a battery) only a few dollars was realized on the game. Of course, hereafter, or until there is a strong team in the local field, fans will not be brought such a great distance.

How About Rockford?
Next Sunday, the Jans are due to clash with the Rockford Maroons. The expense attached to bringing the Maroons here will not be nearly as great as that incurred today, but the Jans will have to be strengthened greatly before next Sunday.

BRINGING UP FATHER

SPORT SERIAL

(By K. L. EAGON.)

If gloom was jitneys today, we'd be sitting in a mansion on Riverside drive, counting waves on the Hudson.

The club needs a backer, a man who knows the game thoroughly, and who is willing to put real players in the lineup against the field. Unless backing of material order is immediately forthcoming, the Jans might as well satisfy themselves with sand lot baseball.

Still Chance Here.
The writer is by no means discouraged by the showing already made. What remains to be done is easy, if the proper promoters do it.
"Sonny" Viney showed up big in the game. He ran almost to Milton avenue for a high foul and got it when the crowd would have wagered 100 to 1 he wouldn't be anywhere near it when it landed.
The crowd yelled for Bick in the sixth and seventh innings, but the game apparently was hopelessly lost and Bick couldn't have saved it with none of the Jans backing him up. He didn't want to. And he can't be blamed.

Fans Fall to Sleep.
Jansville will never have a ball team until there are loyal fans to support it.

Outside of a faint ripple of applause for Eldred after he had fanned two for the Jans, there was not a demonstration in favor of the Jans. But there was plenty of angry stuff. When Viney scammed a hit, a block after a long fly, and it landed in his glove and hopped off, the fans groaned and made caustic remarks. When Pire grabbed one and made a double play, which was a beauty, you couldn't tell anyone was pleased a tail.

The Jans still have a few dollars in the damper. But they need four more uniforms and some more equipment. They must have some money for next Sunday's game.

It's a long road—but maybe it has the well known and equally prominent turn.

Umpire J. A. Murphy was on the job, although he had to get out of a sick bed to do it. Nobody kicked on his decisions and everybody was with him, even if they were sort of tickle about the Jans.

BOY!! DIOGENES WANTED ON LINE

Boy, summon Diogenes!
The original honest person has come to light.

William Doran, aged about eight or nine summers, walked in on us this a. m. and proudly and sportily laid a baseball upon the grand old's desk.

"I found this behind the grandstand yesterday," he piped.
Gee, we thanked a leg off him. But he'll never make a politician.

next Sunday against Jansville: Kennedy, 3b; Black, lb; Marqui, rf; Swenson, 3b; Frouk, lf; Nordquist, ss; Johnson, cf; Roos, c; and Anderson, p.

There was lots of fair ones that didn't go into the outfield. They sat in the grandstand. Oh, lady! LADY!

"Babe" Adams has sworn on a stack of bibles as high as the Singer building that he will be in town next Sunday to play an out garden for the Jans. With Kakuske, we still need one SLUGGING fielder. We're set on first base and shortstop. We have Viney, either for the other field, or third base. This leaves an opening for another man who connects with the ball once in a while, anyway.

We are still looking for the mailman that brought us that telephone book.

Counting press and complimentary tickets, there were nearly 500 persons at yesterday's game. If we can do a little better next Sunday, baseball will be a fixture here for the remainder of the season, and steps will be taken to sign some real players. Otherwise, things look like the end of an imperfect day.

That bird Eckman was about as useful in right field as the wrong end of a hornet.

The Jans are about as well acquainted with third base and home as Bryan is with bourbon.

—Is for Jans.
—And an old thug.
—But we're not thru.
—Don't you ever think.

The writer had lots of friends Saturday night. Gee, we gotta win Sunday.

SO LONG, FELLERS.

HITS

A. E. P. Champs Back
Newport News, Va., April 21.—Two champions of the American expeditionary forces came back on the Jansville today. They were, Lieut.-Col. Dwight F. Davis of St. Louis, tennis champion, and Private Samuel Grinstead, Kansas City, wrestler. Grinstead took part in several bouts aboard the ship on the way across.

Illini In No-Hit Game
Urbana, Ill., April 21.—Mickey Ryan, nicely supported by the Illini, shut out Millikin university without a hit, 6 to 0. Illini's men bunched hits off Bennett in the first and scored 4 runs.
Score: Illini 4 0 0 0 1 0 1 0—5 7 2
Batteries—Ryan and Kopp; Bennett and Ping.

Squeeze Play Brads U. W.
South Bend, Ind., April 21.—A sensational squeeze play in the eighth inning by Pitcher Murray won a hard fought game for Notre Dame against Wisconsin in the opening home game.
Score: Wisconsin 0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0—3 9 3
N. Dame 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 3—4 9 3

Bar Toehold
Chicago, April 21.—Friends and admirers of Benny Reuben, Hebrew middleweight wrestling champion, fear defeat awaits him when he meets Herman Koch, German heavyweight, at the Crown theatre Tuesday night. True, Ben once pinned the shoulders of Koch to the mat, but that was by use of the toehold, which grip is barred to-morrow night. Paul Martinson and "Zulu" Havenpaa meet.

Rowland Signs Pitcher
Evansville, Ind., April 21.—Manager Rowland of Milwaukee has signed Pitcher Guy Dickerson, formerly with Cleveland.

Faber Wins in Workout
Des Moines, Iowa, April 21.—"Red" Faber gave his lame shoulder and arm its first real workout here this afternoon, when he pitched the first four innings against the local Western leaguers. His control was perfect and his curve ball worked splendidly. He cut loose with his fast ball with all its accustomed speed. John Collins' double and Henry's single netted the Sox a run in the tenth and won for them, 1 to 0.

JUNIOR ALL-STARS DEFEAT CUBS, 30-11

Cullen's home run with the bases full was the feature of the Junior All Stars-Cubs game yesterday afternoon, the Stars winning 30 to 11. Dawson, twirling for the winners, struck out 16 men and allowed but 6 hits. The Cubs' slacker, Gardner, whiffed 9 men and allowed 15 hits.

The Junior Stars will practice to-night and Wednesday evening in preparation for their game with a Beloit nine next Sunday.

The Policy of The Standard Oil Company (Indiana)

IT is the policy of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to conduct its business in fairness to all: to the consumer, to the employee, to the stockholder and to the competitor.

To deal fairly with the consumer by manufacturing the best petroleum products, distributing them widely and selling them at lowest prices.

To deal fairly with the employee by giving him steady work, compensating him liberally, and as far as possible, insuring him against unemployment.

To deal fairly with the competitor by standing squarely on the broad, general principle of live and let live—by maintaining open prices and never deviating from them.

The Standard Oil Company knows that, by reason of its refining and distribution facilities, and the service it renders to customers, it has no need to disorganize the market to get its fair share of the business. That is all it expects and wants.

It is because of adherence to these general policies that the Company has prospered, and the Directors have been able to give a creditable accounting of their trusteeship to the 4623 stockholders who have their money invested in the Company.

Griff's Ball Club Is Real Enigma

(By N. E. BROWN)
LARK GRIFF'S team enters the American league scramble an unknown quantity. The Fox has worked hard to get new life and more hitting strength in his club. What good he has done cannot be judged ahead of time.
Griff always has been handicapped by the lack of good hitters. A good pitching staff has been his main asset. Griff's greatest attempt to put some batting power on the field failed. He sought to get Davey Robertson in a three-cornered deal with the Giants and St. Louis club, but the deal fell through.

Davey would have bolstered up the outfield as well as the batting average of the club. As the team stands now Griff has Clyde Milan, Sam Rice and Menoskey for his regular outfield and H. Milan and Shannon as subs. He need not worry about the gardens.

His infield looks fair. He will have Joe Judge at first, Leonard at second, Janvran at short and Foster at third. Sharps and McBride give Clark two good utility infielders.

What will happen to Dr. Lavan isn't known.

You can keep an eye on Griff's hurlers. Walt Johnson, of course, is a fair sized hurling staff as he is fast and pitches in addition to the King. Griff has Harper, Shaw and Doc Ayres—all veterans, but not slipping ones. His rookie hurlers are Howitt, Mattison, Craft, Thompson and Flaherty.

Agnew, Pieinich and Garrity can handle the receiving end in fair style. Pieinich, though a youngster, is booked to catch Walter Johnson—speed and all.

Lieut. G. O. Van Meter and Lieut. G. E. Van Meter, both of Mansfield, W. V., father and son, are the only instances of successful candidates for army commissions from civil life who bore such relationship. The father was a lawyer and the son a university professor when war declared. They entered the first officers' training camp and were commissioned on the same day. Both were sent overseas and are expected home soon.

Their Unfinished Work— and Ours

THE great purpose, which lay back of the war was far too vast a task for any one body of men to put through to a finish.

Our soldiers have done—are doing—their part. God knows we never wanted them to do more.

But what of us?

Winning the war was the initial step toward a world peace and prosperity of which hitherto we had never dared to dream. But it was only a step.

The work of the most glorious armies of all history placed us on the threshold of an open door. A new world of unlimited possibilities lies beyond. They could not bring it to us. They could only show it to us, and its vast worth—and give their lives to do it, if that were needed.

It is our task to finish this work.

They showed us the way and passed on—perhaps to new worlds to conquer. And whether we will or not, the solemn obligation to finish their work has fallen upon us.

"If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep—though poppies bloom
In Flanders fields."

Your patriotism and mine was not buried in those graves in Flanders fields. There is still work to do—for our country, for ourselves, for our children. Else the war will have failed in its purpose—and millions of young lives will have gone out on a vain quest.
